PURIFICATION

San Ge Mon

All the harmful karma
Ever committed by me since of old
Caused by my beginningless
Greed, anger, and folly
Born of my body, mouth and thought
I now confess and purify it all.

OPENING THIS DHARMA

This Dharma,
Incomparably profound and minutely subtle,
Is rarely met with,
Even in hundreds of thousands of millions of eons.
We now can see This, listen to This,
Accept and hold This.
May we completely realize and actualize
The Tathagata's teaching.

BODHISATTVA'S VOW

By Torei Enji Zenji

When I, a student of Dharma,
Look at the real form of the universe,
All is the never-failing manifestation
Of the mysterious truth of Tathagata.
In any event, in any moment, and in any place,
None can be other than
The marvelous revelation of its glorious light.
This realization made our ancestral teachers
And virtuous Zen masters extend tender care,
With a worshipping heart,
Even to such beings as beasts and birds.
This realization teaches us
That our daily food and drink,
Clothes and protections of life,
Are the warm flesh and blood,
The merciful transformation of Buddha.
Who can be ungrateful or not respectful
Even to insentient things,
Not to speak of human beings?
Even though they may be fools,
Be warm and compassionate toward them.
If by chance they should turn against us,
And abuse and persecute us,
We should bow down with humble words,
In the reverent belief that they are
The merciful avatars of Buddha,
Who uses devices to emancipate us

From harmful karma
That has been produced
And accumulated upon ourselves
Through our own egoistic delusion and attachment
Throughout the countless cycles of kalpa.
Then, in each moment's flash of our thought,
There will grow a lotus flower,
And each lotus flower will reveal a Buddha.
These Buddhas will glorify
Sukhavati, the Pure Land,
Every moment, everywhere.
May we extend This Mind over the whole universe
So that we and all beings together
May attain maturity in Buddha's wisdom.

However endless the Buddha's way is,

THE SONG OF ZAZEN

By Hakuin Ekaku Zenji

Sentient beings are fundamentally Buddhas.

It is like ice and water:

Apart from water, no ice can exist;

Outside sentient beings,

Where do we find the Buddhas?

Not knowing how near the Truth is,

We seek it far away--what a pity!

We are like one who, in the midst of water,

Cries in thirst so imploringly.

We are like the rich man's son

Who wandered away among the poor.

The reason why we transmigrate

Through the six worlds is that we are lost

In the darkness of ignorance.

Going astray further and further in the darkness,

When are we able to be free from birth and death?

As for Zazen practice in the Mahayana,

We have no words to praise it fully.

The virtues of perfection, such as charity, morality,

And the invocation of the Buddha's name,

Confession, and ascetic discipline,

And many other good deeds of merit—

All these return into THIS!

Even those who have practiced it
For just one sitting
Will see all their harmful karma erased;
Nowhere will they find deluded paths;
The Pure Land will be near at hand.
With a reverential heart,
If we listen to this truth even once,
And praise it, and gladly embrace it,
We will surely be blessed most infinitely.

But if we concentrate within,
And testify to the truth that
Self-nature is no-nature,
We have really gone beyond foolish talk.

The gate of the oneness
Of cause and effect is open;
The path of non-duality runs straight ahead.

To regard the form of no-form as form,
Whether going or returning,
We cannot be any place else.
To regard the thought of no-thought as thought,
Whether singing or dancing,
We are the voice of the Dharma.

How boundless the cleared sky of Samadhi!
How transparent the perfect moonlight
Of the Fourfold Wisdom.

At this moment, what more need we seek?
As the truth eternally reveals itself,
This very place is the lotus land of purity,
This very body is the body of the Buddha.

DAITO KOKUSHI'S FINAL ADMONITION

You who have come to this mountain monastery, remember that you have gathered here for the sake of the Dharma, not for the sake of clothes and food. As long as you have shoulders, clothing will appear; as long as you have a mouth, food will come. Just devote yourselves to facing the inconceivable, twenty-four hours a day. Time passes like an arrow. I warn you, do not distract your minds with miscellaneous affairs. Be alert! Be alert!

After this old monk departs on his final pilgrimage, some of you may erect prosperous temples with pagodas, great halls, and sutras written in gold and silver. These may attract large crowds who loudly chant the sutras and dharanis. Or some of you may sit for long hours without lying down. You may eat only one meal a day, and practice ceaselessly throughout the six periods of the day.

Even if you dedicate yourselves that way, unless you keep to the mysterious and untransmissible path of the Buddhas and Ancestors, you will be confronted by the sudden chaos of the law of causation. Then true practice will fall away, and you will have joined the family of evil spirits!

No matter how much time has passed since my departure from this world, you will never be allowed to call yourselves my Dharma descendants.

However, one of you may dwell in a hut thatched with one bundle of straw, and pass the days eating the roots of wild herbs cooked in a broken-legged pot. Devoted to digging into This Matter, you will never be apart from me. You are a true student of Dharma, requiting the beneficence you have received. Who would dare to belittle or despise such a one?

Exert yourselves! Exert yourselves!

THE FIVE REFLECTIONS

First, let us reflect on our own work,
And the effort of those who brought us this food.

Secondly, let us be aware of
The quality of our deeds
As we receive this meal.

Thirdly, what is most essential
Is the practice of attention,
Which helps us cut through
Greed, anger, and delusion.

Fourthly, we appreciate this food,
Which sustains the good health
Of our body and mind.

Fifthly, in order to continue
Our practice for all beings,
We accept this offering.

IKKU I DAN ISSAI AKU
NIKU I SHU ISSAI ZEN
SANKU I DO SHO SHUJO
KAIKU JO BUTSU DO

*The first morsel is to destroy all harm
The second morsel is to practice all good deeds
The third morsel is to save all sentient beings
May we all attain the path of Buddhahood.*

After the Meal

Morning

Having finished the morning meal,
Let us pray that all beings may accomplish
Whatever tasks they are engaged in,
And be fulfilled with all the Buddha-Dharmas.

Midday

Having finished the midday meal,
Our bodily strength is fully restored,
Our power extends over the ten directions
And through the three periods of time.
As to the revolving wheel of Dharma,
No thought is wasted over it.
May all beings attain true wisdom.

NOTES

THE HEART SUTRA: In a narrow sense, it is possible to say that Avalokitesvara Bodhisattva was doing zazen practice with intense concentration on the Prajna Paramita Dharani: GATE GATE PARA GATE PARA SAM GATE BODHI SVAHA. By repeating this Dharani, the mystical sound affected him, and he went into a deeper, clearer state of mind. Thus, he awoke to prajna, true wisdom. In a broader sense, however, whether sitting still or walking freely, Avalokitesvara Bodhisattva was doing nothing but prajna paramita. With the highest praise and admiration, he told Sariputra the importance of the Prajna Paramita Dharani and encouraged everyone to practice likewise, so they could realize that form is no other than Sunyata, Sunyata is no other than form. It is this realization that frees us from all misfortune and suffering.

MAHA: Great, all-encompassing, absolute. (DAI, Japanese)

PRAJNA: True wisdom. (HANNYA, Japanese)

PARAMITA: Literally, “to reach the other shore,” but in a spiritual sense, “to go beyond the ordinary state of mind”; perfection. (HARAMITA, Japanese)

HRIDAYA: Heart, or essence. (SHIN, Japanese)

SUTRA: A sutra is a text said to have been spoken by the Buddha himself, recorded by his students after his death. With the development of Mahayana Buddhism, further sutras were written centuries after the Buddha's passing, but always revealed his essential teachings. In a broader sense, sutras include the enlightened sayings of the great Ancestral Teachers, as well as verses and dharani. (KYO or GYO, Japanese)

SKANDHAS: According to Buddhism, all elements of the phenomenal world are composed of five aggregates: form, feeling, thought, volition, and consciousness. (ON or UN, Japanese)

SUNYATA: “Voidness,” “Emptiness,” “As-it-is-ness.” In the English language, “void” and “empty” have negative or even nihilistic implications, and “as-it-is-ness” may sound fatalistic. The original term sunyata has no negative, nihilistic, or fatalistic implication, but rather, it points positively to each fact as fact. Yet all composite things arise according to a combination of various causes and conditions, and change appearances moment after moment. Thus each composite thing has no inherent substance of its own – hence, “voidness,” or “emptiness.” Nevertheless, at each moment, all things are just as they are and cannot be otherwise – hence “as-it-is-ness.” The word is pronounced shūn-ya-tá. (KU, Japanese)

SARIPUTRA: A disciple of Shakyamuni Buddha. He is the representative listener to the Heart Sutra preached by Avalokiteshvara Bodhisattva.
(SHARISHI, Japanese)

DHARMA: The law, truth, or teaching; in lower-case plural form, phenomena. (HO, Japanese)

GATE GATE PARA GATE PARA SAM GATE BODHI
SVAHA: “Gone, gone, gone to the other shore; having arrived at the other shore. O Bodhi (Enlightened Mind) Svaha (Hail)!“

NAMU DAI BOSA: A mantra composed by Soen Nakagawa Roshi. Unlike most other mantras that have meaning only in the context of the repetition of their sounds, the words carry special significance.

NAMU, an expression of salutation, is best rendered into English as adoration to, to be united with, or having devotion toward.

DAI existentially means large or great. From the ordinary point of view, we consider the sun large and great; a particle of dust small and inconsequential. This is true, but not completely true. As the Lankavatara Sutra says:

Things are not what they seem
Nor are they otherwise.

DAI essentially means absolute. From the enlightened point of view, all phenomena – the sun, planets, mountains and rivers, trash and dirt, humans and animals – have absolute nature of their own. Likewise, greed, anger, and delusion are as absolute as compassion and wisdom.

Only when we understand the reality of these two aspects are we able to realize the true nature of the universe, which is none other than the true nature of our very being. It is this very being that is called BOSA, from “Bodhisattva” in Sanskrit. Literally, bodhi means enlightened and sattva means being.

DHARANI:

In esoteric Buddhism, short mystical verses are called mantra, while long ones are called dharani. Literally, dharani means that by which something is sustained: both dharani and mantra are composed of mystical syllables that protect the spiritual life of the one who recites them. In Zen Buddhism, they may be regarded as the quintessence of a sutra. A mystical power is embodied in these syllables. They may not make intellectual sense, but they have an effect on one’s state of mind.
